Implementation of the Monterrey Consensus,[8] and the Conference on the World Financial and Economic Crisis and its Impact on Development,[9]

Reaffirming the goal set out in paragraph 19 of the United Nations Millennium Declaration,[10] to halve, by 2015, the proportion of the world's people whose income is less than one dollar a day and the proportion of people who suffer from hunger,

Recalling the Rome Declaration on World Food Security and the World Food Summit Plan of Action,[11] the Declaration of the World Food Summit: five years later,[12] including the goal of achieving food security for all through an ongoing effort to eradicate hunger in all countries, with an immediate view to reducing by half the number of undernourished people by no later than 2015, as well as the commitment to achieving the Millennium Development Goals,

Convinced of the urgent need, at the highest political level, to marshal the global consensus and commitments to increase efforts at the national, regional and international levels to address food security and agriculture development as part of the international development agenda,

Conscious that, despite the progress that has been made in ensuring global food availability and security, 1.02 billion people remain chronically undernourished,

Bearing in mind the holding of the High-Level Expert Forum on How to Feed the World in 2050, which was approved by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) Conference in November 2007, and the summit proposal of the Director-General of FAO and the objectives contained therein,

1. Welcomes the agreement by the FAO Council at its hundred and thirty-sixth session to convene a world summit on food security in November 2009, in close proximity to the FAO Conference;

2. Invites Governments to participate actively in the preparations and to be represented at the level of Heads of State or Government at the summit;

3. Encourages an action-oriented outcome that builds on actions and efforts already undertaken to addressing the issue of food security;

4. Invites all relevant United Nations and other intergovernmental organizations, including international and regional trade, financial and economic institutions, as well as non-governmental organizations and the private sector, to cooperate actively with FAO in preparing for the summit;

5. Welcomes the contributions made so far, and invites the international community to make further contributions on a voluntary basis to the special trust fund established by FAO in order to facilitate the preparations for and the holding of the summit;
